Prize Winners this week

Class 1: Vivi for her fantastic attitude towards learning at school and home

Class 2: Kieran for maths work counting quarter kgs

Class 3: Sonny for super fraction work in maths

Class 1: Our new topic in the infants this half term is Rainforest. The children are already excited to learn where in the world they are, what has happened to them over time not to mention the creatures that live in them. Year 1 are continuing with their preparation for phonic screening so please continue support your child at home – Thank you. In maths we have been learning about measuring height and length using non-standard measures. The children have had fun comparing lengths using cubes, feet, hands and string. It's important that they use the language of; short, shorter, shortest and tall, taller, tallest and long, longer, longest alongside greater than, less than or equal to. You could ask you child to find things at home that are the same length or height, then use something to prove this.

Class 2: In class 2 we have collected lots of questions around the theme of Earth, rocks and soil. We are really looking forward to finding out all the answers. Please visit the pages on this website about the current curriculum to find out everything we will be covering this half term. We started the week comparing the creation stories Genesis, Hindu and the Big bang theory. We have had fun learning about the different homophones bear and bare, knight and night as well as here and hear. We are exploring popular children's authors and how to find a book we will enjoy. In maths we have been counting in quarters and quarter kgs. We also measured liquids and the weight of ingredients for our pancakes on pancake day. We enjoyed having a savoury treat with ham and a tiny bit of maple syrup.

Class 3: The juniors have enjoyed the first week back and are busy learning about the Anglo-Saxons. This morning we had a wonderful session with Zozo. They performed one of his African songs so accurately and beautifully that they reduced him to tears at one point. Next Thursday, is World Book Day it would be if the children could have a look in their wardrobes and put a simple book character costume together (you don't need to buy anything!). Please could they also bring in a favorite book for our activities.
